MESSAGE FROM THE CHAIRMAN

The Metropolitan Washington Council of Governments (COG) Annual Crime and Crime Control Report is developed by the COG Police Chiefs Committee on behalf of the COG Board of Directors. This report provides the National Capital Region's (NCR) leadership and elected officials with the ability to review and evaluate crime trends from a regional perspective.

Authored by the Police Investigative Commanders Subcommittee, the report collects crime statistics from the 24 primary member COG jurisdictions, neighboring jurisdictions, and federal law enforcement agencies. The first section of the report illustrates the 2021 crime statistics and compares the offenses and arrests against the prior five years of data. The second section of the report highlights the regional initiatives and other efforts by the COG Police Chiefs Committee and its subcommittees to combat crime in the region.

I am honored to chair the Police Chiefs Committee, excited for the law enforcement initiatives being implemented regionally, and I look forward to the continued success in making the NCR a safer and more secure region.

Russell E. Hamill, III, Chair, COG Police Chiefs Committee
Chief of Police, Laurel Police Department

INTRODUCTION

The Metropolitan Washington Council of Governments (COG) Annual Report on Crime and Crime Control is based on crime statistics reported by 24 COG jurisdictions.¹ The report also includes statistics from neighboring jurisdictions and federal law enforcement agencies to highlight the trends throughout the region. This includes new data reporting from one local, three state, and three federal law enforcement agencies in the region compared to the previous year’s report. This report, compiled by the COG Police Chiefs Committee, begins by focusing on Part I/Part A Offenses, as defined by the Federal Bureau of Investigation (FBI), primarily collected using the following reporting methods:

- Uniform Crime Reporting (UCR) Program, and
- National Incident Based Reporting System (NIBRS)

COG disseminated a data collection instrument requesting information from the region’s law enforcement agencies on the Police Chiefs Committee. Each agency determines its own reporting method. COG compiled the data, regardless of reporting method, and presents in this report crime trends over five years to provide a clearer picture of crime in the National Capital Region (NCR). To gain a more comprehensive understanding of crime trends in the region, additional factors such as the economy, social stressors, legislative changes, and/or changes in police policies and resources should be taken into consideration. This additional analysis is not included in this report.

PART I/PART A OFFENSES

In 2021, the NCR saw a decrease in the total number of Part I/Part A offenses over the previous year. There was a 3.9 percent decrease in 2021 from 2020. Figure 1 demonstrates the five-year trend, with an overall decrease of 4,098 reported offenses between 2020 and 2021 in the NCR.

¹ The Town of Bladensburg, Maryland did not report statistics for 2021. The City of College Park is included in Prince George’s County and Maryland State Police data.

Table 1 below illustrates the breakdown of Part I/Part A Offenses for each of the reporting COG jurisdictions, as well as the crimes committed per 1,000 people. Table 2 illustrates the breakdown of offenses for the associate members, including neighboring jurisdictions and federal agencies.

CRIME TRENDS IN THE NATIONAL CAPITAL REGION

Crime trends in the NCR are calculated by adding the total number of historical property crimes and violent crimes, and then comparing the total against the previous five years. There was an increase in the overall calls for service and a 1.9 percent decrease in property crime in 2021 from the previous year, with an overall decrease over a five-year period. Property crime includes offenses of burglary, larceny, and motor vehicle theft. Figure 2 shows the historical property crime trends from 2017 to 2021 in the NCR.

Regionally, violent crime decreased 15 percent in 2021. Violent crime includes homicide, rape, robbery, and aggravated assault. Figure 3 shows the historical violent crime trends from 2017-2021 in the NCR.

Crime Rate Per Capita

The region's population increased in 2021 to just under six million and the crime rate per capita decreased. The 2021 crime rate per capita was 16.8 per 1,000. Crime rate per capita is a commonly accepted measure of crime and often serves as a basic indicator of overall crime trends. In addition to the overall crime trends, each jurisdiction closely monitors their own crime patterns, and addresses current trends using an assortment of policing, training, and specialized law enforcement.

Figure 4 illustrates the overall decrease in the crime rate per capita from 2017-2021. The line in the figure represents the population growth over the last five years.

Calls for service and staffing levels should be included when evaluating crime rate per capita data. Calls for service numbers may not include officer-initiated calls and may only reflect dispatched calls. Table 5 provides a breakdown of the total calls for service in each reporting COG jurisdiction and associate member jurisdictions, as well as the staffing levels for sworn and civilian personnel.

REGIONAL LAW ENFORCEMENT INITIATIVES

The COG Police Chiefs Committee is committed to promoting new, and continuing previous, regional law enforcement initiatives. The ongoing COVID-19 pandemic and exacerbated workforce challenges in 2021 hindered some progress on beginning new regional programs. However, the region's law enforcement agencies understand the changing landscape of policing and are working together to create effective strategies for enforcement and community engagement. Below is an example of a new regional initiative started in late 2021 by COG.

Safe Roads Task Force

The NCR, as well as the country, experienced a troubling increase in illegal street racing and unsanctioned car meets since the beginning of the COVID-19 pandemic, threatening the safety of participants, spectators, law enforcement, and the community. These incidents often involve large groups of exhibition drivers convening on a roadway, intersection, or parking structure, blocking access for emergency response vehicles and the public, and racing at unlawfully high speeds and performing disruptive and destructive vehicle maneuvers. Other criminal activity can also accompany many of these rallies, such as violence against responding law enforcement, disorderly conduct, destruction of property, and illegal possession of drugs, weapons, and stolen vehicles. These incidents increase the demand for law enforcement resources and pose significant challenges to effectively respond and to intervene.

The COG Police Chiefs Committee identified the need to address this issue as a region, understanding that disrupting car meets in one jurisdiction regularly leads to participants travelling to another jurisdiction to continue their activities. The COG Safe Roads Task Force was established as a working group of law enforcement, intelligence, and incident management agencies to develop and coordinate the regional law enforcement response strategy to this illegal driving activity. The task force is comprised of 19 local and state law enforcement and intelligence agencies in the NCR, Baltimore Region, and Central Virginia Region.

The task force facilitates information sharing and promotes operational coordination among law enforcement and other impacted public safety functions through regular briefings, coordination calls, and intelligence reports. Task force members coordinate response planning, share best practices related to intelligence, enforcement, investigations, and exchange information regarding local jurisdictional legislation on the topic. The task force also receives guidance and operational support from the COG police subcommittees for intelligence, investigations, and public order. The task force has provided and received lessons learned from other metropolitan law enforcement agencies across the country that are experiencing similar challenges.

The Maryland Coordination and Analysis Center (MCAC) is the primary agency for the task force's intelligence collection, analysis, and dissemination efforts. The MCAC has also activated a Virtual Command Center to support real-time communication and interagency collaboration during several responses.

Within months of operation, task force members reported a decrease of illegal exhibition driving activity in the NCR, credited to the collective efforts of the group. Additionally, the group's scope was updated to address all-terrain vehicles and dirt bikes illegally operating on roadways that similarly perform exhibition driving in the region. Task force members employed a variety of enforcement strategies to mitigate exhibition driving activity, which were successful due to the full support from member agencies regarding resource sharing and mutual aid, operational coordination, and information sharing. The task force continues to regularly meet and collaborate regionally to address this ongoing public safety issue.

CONCLUSION

The NCR continues to see a decline in overall crime and an increase in population. The NCR experienced a decrease in Part I/Part A Offenses in 2021, with a 3.9 percent decline in both property crime and violent crime offenses. The decrease in violent crime in the region is favorable to the national-level data that shows an increase in violent crime in American cities, as presented in the Pandemic, Social, Unrest, and Crime in U.S. Cities 2021 Year-End Update Report from the Council on Criminal Justice's National Commission on COVID-19 and Criminal Justice. This report found that homicide rates across 27 American cities increased by five percent, aggravated assaults by four percent, and motor vehicle thefts by 14 percent during 2021.

While overall violent crime in the NCR decreased 15 percent, this was largely driven by a 28 percent decrease in aggravated assaults. Homicide increased 17 percent, robbery increased more than five percent, and motor vehicle theft increased nearly nine percent.

Law enforcement across the region still face significant challenges as the COVID-19 pandemic persists. As calls for service across much of the region have increased since last year, agencies continued to have difficulty maintaining staffing levels due to nationwide and regionwide challenges with officer recruitment and retention.

By building relationships, exchanging information, and engaging in law enforcement programs across the COG region, the Police Chiefs Committee directs their various technical subcommittees to work on regional law enforcement issues. For 2022, the COG Police Chiefs Committee and subcommittees are working in the following focus areas: (1) training and exercise, (2) operational coordination, (3) workforce, and (4) information sharing and collaboration.

From the strategic to tactical levels, the Police Chiefs Committee and its police subcommittees regularly meet to discuss innovative techniques and best practices in the implementation of these focus areas in the NCR. With diverse resourcing to include Urban Area Security Initiative grant funds and regional public safety funding, the Police Chiefs Committee will continue to sponsor new initiatives that close the gap in criminal activity in the region.

The Police Chiefs Committee, representing the law enforcement agencies across the NCR, are committed to collaborating and identifying new ways to ensure that the region remains a safe and secure place to live, work, and visit.
