Openings on Regional Public Advisory Committee

The Metropolitan Washington Air Quality Committee's Air Quality Public Advisory Committee (AQPAC) has several membership openings on its committee.

The Air Quality Public Advisory Committee (AQPAC) represents diverse community interests and opinions on air quality planning to the regional air quality planning board, the Metropolitan Washington Air Quality Committee or MWAQC. The Public Advisory Committee reviews and advises MWAQC on the development of an air quality plan and comments and makes recommendations on climate change/energy efficiency issues. The AQPAC meets the third Monday of the month from 5:30 pm – 7:30 pm at the offices of Metropolitan Washington Council of Governments (COG), 777 North Capitol St., NE, Washington, D.C.

The COG offices are located 1 ½ blocks from the Union Station Metro Red Line, and underground parking is available from First Street.
