Subject: Approval of Project Recommendations for Funding Under the Job Access Reverse Commute (JARC) and New Freedom Programs
CC: Ronald Kirby, Director of Transportation Planning

I am pleased to present to the TPB for approval ten endorsed project recommendations for funding under the Job Access Reverse Commute (JARC) and New Freedom programs of the Federal Transit Administration (FTA). Like the projects funded by the TPB in the past two years, these ten new projects will improve the mobility of persons with disabilities and low-income commuters throughout the metropolitan area.

Background

The TPB is the designated recipient for two Federal Transit Administration programs: 1) Job Access Reverse Commute, which provides funding for low-income workers to reach employment and employment training activities and for reverse commute activities; and 2) New Freedom, which funds new transportation services for persons with disabilities. As the designated recipient of these program funds, the TPB is able to fund projects to implement the Coordinated Human Service Transportation Plan ("Coordinated Plan"), which includes selection criteria for the federally-required competitive selection of projects and which the TPB approved on April 18, 2007. The Coordinated Plan identifies the unmet transportation needs of low-income workers, people with disabilities and older adults and lists priority projects for addressing those unmet needs. The eight selection criteria are used to score and rank applications. A copy of the selection criteria is attached.

Prior Year Solicitations

The TPB's first solicitation for JARC and New Freedom funds was conducted from May 1 through June 30, 2007. Five projects (3 JARC projects and 2 New Freedom projects) were funded, which totaled $619,300 and which were provided with $334,419 in federal funding. These projects are currently operational.

Based on lessons learned from the 2007 solicitation, several changes were made to the 2008 solicitation. The application period was doubled to four months to give applicants extra time to prepare an application and secure the appropriate local matching funds. The grant period was lengthened to two years to provide more time to grantees to implement and operate the projects, and to provide additional time for evaluation of those projects. In 2008, 11 projects (4 JARC projects and 7 New Freedom projects) totaling $3,027,212 were funded, and were provided with $2,314,856 in federal funding. All of these projects, with the exception of the accessible taxicabs in D.C. that are currently being procured, are operational.

2009 Solicitation for JARC and New Freedom Projects

The TPB solicitation for JARC and New Freedom funds was conducted from February 4 through April 29, 2009. Approximately 1,800 organizations or agencies received a brochure or email announcing the availability of funds to help low-income individuals or persons with disabilities. TPB staff conducted five pre-application conferences to instruct interested organizations on the application process. Conferences were held in Maryland and Virginia in addition to D.C. and were attended by over 35 different organizations and agencies.

The Human Service Transportation Coordination Task Force (“Task Force”) identified four priorities for the 2009 solicitation. Three of the priorities were to support the transportation needs of low-income workers. The first priority is transportation vouchers for low-income workers, including taxi vouchers or gas cards. The second priority is expanded transit in underserved neighborhoods, and the third is shuttles or vanpools to suburban employment sites. The fourth priority is travel training, which helps individuals with specialized transportation needs learn to navigate and travel on public transportation. These priorities were released for public comment via the TPB website in November 2008.

At the conclusion of the solicitation period, 12 applications were received: 6 applications for JARC funding, 5 applications for New Freedom funding, and one application for combined JARC and New Freedom funding. Funding recommendations were made by the Selection Committee based on the Task Force’s four priorities and on the responsiveness to and consistency with the selection criteria and the priorities in the Coordinated Plan.

The Selection Committee recommended that, of the 12 applications received, 5 be funded at the level of funds requested, 4 be funded at a greater level to ensure needs are adequately addressed, one be provided partial funding, and 2 not be funded. The 10 proposals that are recommended for funding provide balanced geographic coverage. The two applicants whose proposals are not recommended for funding will receive letters explaining how their applications may be strengthened for the next solicitation.

Selection Committee and Selection Process

I chaired the Selection Committee of five people that was comprised of national and local organizations representing disability, workforce development, transit and private provider expertise. The Selection Committee members are:

1. Michael Artson, Fastran
2. Eve Hill, Burton Blatt Institute
3. Carolyn Jeskey, Community Transportation Association of America
4. Harold Morgan, Taxicab, Limousine & Paratransit Association
5. Gwen Rubinstein, Washington Area Women’s Foundation

Each member reviewed and scored the applications using the TPB-approved selection criteria. The Selection Committee met twice to discuss the applications and make final decisions about which projects to recommend for funding. Before its second meeting, the Selection Committee submitted written follow-up questions to the applicants to enable them to clarify elements of their proposals before making its final recommendations. After a thoughtful and deliberative process, the Selection Committee recommended that 10 projects be funded. The attached table provides a summary of the applications received, the projects proposed and the recommended grant awards.
