PURPLE LINE CORRIDOR COALITION

Beyond the Tracks

Community Development in the Purple Line Corridor

The Maryland Transit Administration expects to break ground on the Purple Line in 2015. Experience in other metropolitan areas has shown that the best way to capture the opportunities and meet the challenges of this potentially transformative transportation investment is to prepare a community development strategy well before ground is broken.

This one-day workshop will focus on elements vital to a community's economic development in the Purple Line corridor, such as preserving affordable housing, supporting small businesses, connecting workers with jobs, and building community through innovative development and design. Join more than 150 regional leaders from nonprofit, government, business and philanthropy sectors to explore how we can learn from other regions to fulfill the Purple Line's promise.
